

Digital Signing - Convenient and Compliant

“Electronic signatures and digital signatures are not the same thing”

In a competitive environment, providing customers the speed, convenience and simplicity of signing online is a must. In selecting the signing method you offer your customers, don't sacrifice compliance for convenience. The risk is too high.

Electronic signatures and digital signatures are not the same thing. Digital signing provides all the speed and convenience of electronic signing with the additional benefits of protecting the document from manipulation and proving who signed it.

Digital signing using PKI technology is the only way to ensure a non-forgable electronic signature.

	Electronic Signatures	Digital Signatures
Convenience of online signing	✓	✓
Document changes invalidate the signature	✗	✓
Personal signing certificate irrevocably binds the signer to the document	✗	✓
Online signature verification	✓	✓
Independent, offline signature verification	✗	✓
Signed document contains everything needed to verify signature	✗	✓
Signature verification is possible even if service provider is no longer in business	✗	✓
Privacy assured as signed document is returned to you and not retained long term by the service provider	✗	✓
Signing process is proprietary creating vendor lock in	✓	✗
Signing process is standards based for long term reliability and authenticity	✗	✓

Other considerations you should consider when selecting any online service provider include:

- Availability of support during your working hours
- Implications of storing data in jurisdictions with conflicting privacy legislation.
- Capabilities available to customise the solution to your specific needs and requirements
- Capacity and willingness to integrate their capabilities into your core systems.

Secured Signing makes it as simple as ‘click to sign’ for your customers while delivering the authenticity and reliability of digital signing you can rely on. Automation features like Smart Tags and a comprehensive programming interface offer a broad range of integration outcomes.
